Work Schedule

- Scholars are expected to be in the South Caucasus for the duration of the project – ECA funded programs do not support remote research projects.
- Please be specific about the number of days per week and number of hours during the day that you will spend on this research project, as well as the location for this research project. Be sure to verify that the resources you need access to will be available to you.
- Your work schedule should demonstrate that you have checked availability of resources.
- Archives may not be open year-round, and local scholars may be traveling in the summer. Check on availability ahead of time.
- Be aware that it can take up to six months to obtain the necessary in-country research clearance and plan accordingly. We recommend beginning the process early.
- Applicants with questions about timing and feasibility, or any other issues relating to working in-country, are encouraged to contact ARISC's Resident Directors: Armenia@arisc.org, Azerbaijan@arisc.org, or Georgia@arisc.org

Diversity Statement: Discuss how your experiences and projects promote diverse perspectives, experiences, and ideas.
